Before an audience which quite crowded the Garrison Theatre, Dr. Cantile gave a highly amusing and interesting discourse last night on 'Scottish song and story.' After first satisfying himself that his hearers were 'a' 'a' 'a' the genial doctor plunged into his subject without further preface, and recounted, with inimitable drollery and gusto, a series of anecdotes and stories, chiefly humorous, and illustrative of various sides of Scotch character. Many of his stories referred to incidents which had come under his own observation and which had appealed to his own keen sense of what is odd and characteristic in Scotch folk; and his manner of telling them, not less than the matter of the stories themselves, provoked roars of laughter. The 'samples' from his inexhaustible stock followed each other with such rapidity that the audience had hardly finished laughing at one when they had to laugh at another, and many of the party comments and audible 'a' 'a' 'a's' were equally enjoyable. There were characteristic sketches of the Scotch clergyman of the old school, who was the virtual ruler of the parish, and who looked after the bodies and property of his flock as well as their souls; and there was also a most amusing picture of an old-fashioned 'Precentor,' a man who would scorn such aid in the service of praise as harmoniums and 'Kists o' whistles.' The specimen of the latter class portrayed to the audience was a highly interesting personage, 'a man specially designed by providence to lead the psalmody in one of the oldest kirks in Scotland,' a 'kirk,' by the way, so old that nobody knew when the original building was reared, and which had a portion added to it by Malcolm Canmore that was still known as the 'New kirk,' and near which—as a line of a song given by the doctor related—'Mawson ramscoot the Dames.' He could not explain what 'ramscoot' meant, but he vouched for its being the word used in a song sometimes sung by the precentor in question. The doctor kept lamenting that he would not be able, in the time at his disposal, to tell his audience half so many stories as he wished to give them, and he prolonged this part of the discourse to such an extent, in response to repeated demands, that little time was left to deal with the songs of Scotland. He, however, sang a few ditties, 'The Cooper o' Fife,' 'The Smith's a gallant fireman,' and—as an example of the new style of Scotch song—'Ta gran' braw clerk in ta office,' and recited with great success 'The wee, wee Gairman Laidie,' as a specimen of the Jacobite songs. At the close of his highly entertaining discourse, the doctor was rewarded with three hearty cheers on the call of Bishop Burdon. Colonel Chatter, and an orchestra, from the band of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders played Scotch selections before and after the lecture. Dr. Cantile was joined by the audience in singing the choruses of 'The Cooper o' Fife,' and 'Ta gran' braw clerk in ta office,' and at the close 'Auld Lang Syne' was sung.

The total export of raw silk from China and Japan this season to the end of September shows an excess of 2,900 bales to the United States, 1,900 bales to Great Britain and 11,600 bales to the Continent.

The Peking Gazette contains the following:—Yu Chih-k'ai is appointed acting Governor of Kiangtung in the place of Chang Chingtung, who has hitherto held this appointment, together with the Governor-Generalship.

Rumours having reached here (Tokio) of a threatening state of affairs amongst the population in St. Petersburg (says the Mainichi Shinbun), the Russian Legation has been wired for particulars as to the truth or otherwise of the report.

Lieutenant H. C. Metcalfe, of the 2nd Battalion Northamptonshire Regiment, stationed at Penang, has been appointed an Acting Assistant Superintendent of Police, and will be stationed at Penang. Naturally these members of the police will aspire to promotion full heart.

A new stern-wheeler to be called the Siriven, and built by Ah Chai at Tanjong Pagar for the Penang Mining Co. was to go out on a trial trip to Singapore on the 15th inst. The Siriven has been engaged by Messrs. Howard Erskine & Co., and draws only nineteen inches of water with a full cargo on board.

A Selangor friend writes to the Singapore Free Press that the ill-effects of any bidding to speak of for Rawang property there. The mines are flooded but although it makes them look bad, it has done little damage and is believed to have been done by Chinese with a view of buying cheap. They will probably go for a song.

The Nagasaki Express of 10th inst. says:—According to our native contemporaries, a telegram was received from Tokio on Saturday last, announcing the sudden and unexpected resignation of Count Ito from the position of President of the Privy Council. The treaty revision question is most probably the cause of the step taken, if it has really been done, which, of course, we cannot vouch for.

The water at Hankow has slightly fallen and the watermark now registers 48 feet. There are still about two feet of water in the foreign settlement and all out-door business has to be done in sampans. At Kiating the water has only partly subsided, and the low-lying lands on the banks of the Yang-tze are still flooded to a depth of several feet and the inhabitants have taken shelter in the hills.

We are glad to learn on good authority, says the Shanghai Mercury, that the vote given in Peking with respect to the Peking-Hankow railway will not affect the immediate extension of the Tientsin railway to Tientsin, and the work is being steadily proceeded with under the direction of Li Hung-chang. Large quantities of rails and materials for French manufacture have been ordered to the North by the Emperor to see the work pushed forward rapidly in bearing fruit.

A VENTURE-SOME Celestial riding on the Switchback railway in Singapore introduced a new feature into the fun which very nearly cost him his life. The car was going down and clutched hold of the railing on the side. He swung completely round and but for the presence of the Manager, sitting behind him, and who caught him and dragged the car to the car, would have been crushed.

At Samarang, so says the Luchtvaart, the following has become a profitable business, from the demand for labour in Deli. The Kien An steamer a shipload of Java coolies via Singapore every ten days, but for that, the demand continues great. The consequence is that even firms, which have a good deal of other business to attend to, now turn coolie recruiters. That branch of trade, which at other times such people would turn up their noses at, yields nowadays very handsome profits.

SAYS the Singapore Free Press:—From Hongkong we hear that the place has much to look forward to in the way of a three days' cricket match. Our correspondent says the team is weak and he expects they will be defeated as they only began practice for the season a fortnight ago. Cricket is given up entirely in the summer months. He also writes that Singapore cricket is going to lose their wicket-keeper, a man with a good team such as Singapore can produce, you could knock spots off any team in the East. I am never tired of making this statement. It generally gets laughed at all the same.

HEARS often try to make out that the testators they happen to be interested in have lost their wits. Usually this takes place when the will does not answer the expectations of the disappointed would-be legatees. At Bahia the other day, there was an instance of just the opposite, the favoured heir wanting to make out that the testator was of unsound mind. The consequence is that the will, which left him his share, on condition of his marrying the testator's widow. The latter is over fifty, and the heir barely half her age.

THE Governor (of the Straits Settlements) having observed a growing tendency on the part of the heads of departments, and their deputies or assistants, to address written communications to subordinates in the department who are employed in the same building, and being of opinion that it is a practice which is to be deprecated, enjoining it does an unnecessary amount of clerical work. His Excellency has requested the heads of departments to adopt, in future, whenever it is possible, oral communication with their subordinates on the general business of the department, and to discourage the writing of unnecessary minutes.

AT the military trial for provocation and robbery held at Peking on the 5th of this month, there were 5,437 competitors engaged in this great feat, and one of the competitors had the misfortune to fall from his horse, this, of course, disqualified him from further trial at this examination. Such examinations take place only once in three years and the successful ones will get the degree of 'Ching See.' There is as much ardour in these military examinations as there is in civil examinations, and a great deal of interest is shown by all the people in the Empire. The Government has a great deal of interest in these examinations, and bet very heavily as to who will be successful. It is called the Wai-ling Lottery.—Native Paper.

THE effect of the weather upon the cotton crop may be gauged from the fact that the local price of native cotton has gone up from Tls. 11 to Tls. 14 per picul within the last few days. The price of foreign cotton has also risen, and is now at Tls. 15 per picul. The cotton crop is generally good, and the weather has been very favourable for it.

PENANG, so says the local Gazette, begins to feel the lack of foresight on the part of both Government and Municipality in bygone days in not reserving more of the public land to meet the future requirements of the town. Now that the latter is extending, these shortcomings become more prominent than ever. So great is the want of suitable sites that the Municipality has had to utilize the middle of a large street, for building purposes. The present crowded condition of Penang endangers the public health, which cannot but face badly from want of 'lungs.'
